

Tuesday, September 27

Peter's breakfast consisted of a bit of everything. He was still in his pj's when Augusta came. Matthew followed close behind us and cried when we left.

Peter's girlfriends, Kirsten and Dannielle, were over. They wrestled in the living room. Peter was superman.

Cheryl came for me at school. Peter was red-eyed after waking up unhappily from his nap. Matthew was quiet. We went by Safeway for bread. Peter told me about Bubba and Babba, a book he took from the library. Cheryl had prepared a delicious chicken and rice supper. We met Cheryl's parents at Robin's Donuts for a few minutes. Matthew wandered around inside.